Local Crop.

ANOTHER MEETING SATURDAY TO SETTLE CONTROVERSY.

Monday afternoon at the City Hall a hundred and fifty Breckenridge county tobacco growers gathered to attempt to settle a controversy involving themselves and the American Tobacco Company of this city, arising over the prices paid for tobacco now being delivered here. The farmers interested are affiliated with the Green River Tobacco Growers Association and were led by G. T. Mison against the local representative of the American. Recently the local crop was sold at Owensboro to the American and it is understood that a verbal agreement was made whereby the farmers were to deliver their tobacco at Cloverport and receive nine, nine and three on the basis of certain samples to be gathered from the various crops in this section, by Frank Dean representing the sellers, and Mr. Haynes, representing the buyer. The samples were sent into the local receiving house and all tobacco delivered here was to be accepted and paid for as per the samples at hand. A few deliveries were made and the tobacco did not command favorably with the samples. The American would not pay number one prices for number three tobacco. Deliveries stopped and the war meeting called to determine whether or not the samples in hand were truly representative of the crop to be delivered. Chairman Mason of the meeting called for a discussion of the matter when it was stated that the samples were plucked from Hancock county and therefore not representative of the local crop, the samples being of a superior grade of tobacco. Cert. Pate, Mason Hawkins and James Keenan were appointed a committee to meet on next Saturday here in Cloverport a representative each of the Green River Tobacco Growers Association and the American Tobacco Company to arrange for the gathering in of new sample taken from the local crops and arranging of a new scale of prices to meet local conditions. It is very important that every farmer interested in this matter be in Cloverport next Saturday. The meeting will be held at the city hall at 1:30 p. m.

BRECKENRIDGE COUNTY MAN WHO ONCE WAS A PUPIL OF JAMES A. GARFIELD.

THE CHAMBERLAIN RESIDENCE AT IRVINGTON.

Not many men in Breckenridge county can claim the honor of coming in close relationship with a President of the United States, and there is only one who has had the unusual experience of being chastised by a Chief Executive. He is Mr. Charles Chamberlain of Irvington. When a boy he attended school at Hiram, Ohio, taught by James A. Garfield, and for a mischievous, boyish act, the future President gave him some "hickory tree."

Since Mr. Chamberlain has been a locomotive engineer he has several times been in charge of trains pulling the country's great men. His train has carried Garfield, McKinley and Harrison, all of whom personally thanked him for safe journeys. Senator J. B. Foraker of Ohio, and William J. Bryan of Nebraska, have traveled with Mr. Chamberlain. Mr. Chamberlain formerly lived in Ohio, but for several years has been living at Irvington, where he has a beautiful home. Mrs. Chamberlain is a charming woman, and is greatly admired for her beauty.

Mrs. Matilda Milliner Dies at Union Star Christmas Day.
Star News.

On Christmas morning the Angels did not herald the glad tidings of a Saviour's birth, but waited up to the great white throne, the spirit of Mrs. Matilda Milliner, wife of Dr. Wm. Milliner, deceased. She had been afflicted for some time but seemed very patient through it all. She leaves five children, Helen, William, James, Pope and Mattie, who have our deepest sympathy. Yes, mother is gone, the home is lonely, it will never be as it once was. Father and mother are not there. It is only trust in the one who has said: "I will never leave or forsake thee," and may Heaven not seem so far away and your steps be in the path that will lead you all up to that beautiful city and meet father and mother.

PROVED GOOD.

For Fifty Years Has A Stool In
Mr. Haswell's Store At Har-

Patrons of Haswell's grocery and saddlery at Hardinsburg have many times noticed Mr. Haswell at work upon a time worn stool which he constantly uses.

For fifty-eight years this piece of furniture has done duty every week day in the year. When Mr. Haswell set up in business in Hardinsburg he began with this stool, which bids fair to do service for many years to come.

Accomplishing Much

The Rev. Isaiah Cline of the M. E. church, is to be congratulated upon the activity of the members of his various preaching places. Taylor's chapel, in Hardinsburg, will soon be furnished with elegant new pews costing several hundred dollars. At Westview a saw-mill is at work cutting lumber for a new church which will occupy the site of the old and inadequate one. His Fairview church, at Mook, is being overhauled and made to look new and more modern. The work will not be complete until the church is painted and made better than it was when first erected more than twenty-five years ago.

FROM IDLENESS TO USEFULNESS.

Ohio River Springs Forth Again.
Big Tows Soon To Come.

After many months of idleness, the Ohio river has again come to the aid of local rivermen plying up and down the stream and the last ten days has shown marked improvement in steamboat and smaller craft business. A thorough and general resume of trade is expected within a week or so and the millions of bushels of coal at Pittsburgh will be coming South at an early date. The transportation of coal from Pittsburgh to New Orleans by rail is $4.87 against 18 cents by water. Many of the rivers North of Cincinnati tributary to the Ohio are blocked with coal barges awaiting a rise to be floated out. When the big towboat "Sprague" comes South this year it will be the sign of relief having come to the operators and coal miners of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

FINAL SLEEP CAME CHRISTMAS DAY.

To Dr. Smith To Annihilate Suffering Of Years--Faithful Public Servant For Over Quarter Century.

A MODEL FATHER AND AN HONEST PRACTITIONER.

The joys and festivities of Christmas are never without their sorrow, and so was Cloverport's Christmas this year. The calling away just at this time, of a servant to his last reward who has been always and without ceasing, faithful to his trust for the last thirty years, could not but dampen the spirits of a glad yuletide. Such was the death of Dr. Francis Marion Smith, of this city, at two o'clock in the afternoon of Christmas day. The final sleep came to annihilate the pains and agonies of a year's known suffering and, too, the sufferings of years previous unknown to any save himself, whilst he was administering to the sick and caring for the wounded. Few men have ever been held in higher esteem in the minds of Cloverport and Breckenridge county people than Dr. Smith. He was a model father, even indulgent to a fault, a true husband and an honest practitioner of his profession.

Dr. Smith was born near Hardinsburg in 1845 on May 5. Educated in the Hardinsburg Public schools, the State College at Edfham, N. H., and at Bodin College, Maine. Returning to Kentucky he taught school both in Hardinsburg and Moweville, and then entered the Louisville Medical College, graduating in 1876. After two years practice each at Lewesport and Tobinsport, Ind., he came to Cloverport to enter upon his final service which ended in death. Soon after coming here he married Miss Mattie LaHaise, who survives him with three daughters, a son and a step-daughter. He is also survived by three brothers and a sister.

The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from the Methodist church, Rev. B. M. Currie officiating, and the interment was made in the local cemetery.

Those who attended the services from a distance were: Mr. Willis Smith, of Owensboro, Mr. Enick Smith, of Irvington, Mr. Wesley Smith, of West View, brothers of the deceased, Mrs. John Cheatham, of Owensboro, a niece, and Mr. Wm. Henley, Hardinsburg.

HOW I KILLED MY FIRST INDIAN

BY BUFFALO BILL

FROM "TRUE TALES OF THE PLAINS"

IN 1857 I was barely eleven when I shot my first Indian. He was a chief. I knew that from his head-dress. His name I never learned. Here is the story:

My parents, with their seven children, had moved from Iowa to Kansas three years earlier. My father had taken up a claim in Salt Creek valley and built a comfortable home. But he was not to enjoy the good days that seemed to be dawning for us.

Kansas just then was torn by the slavery feud, and in the bitter strife of the time my father, after making an anti-slavery speech at a nearby post trader's store, was mobbed and his life threatened. On this occasion one of my father's late audience—a man, Charles Dunne by name—stabbed my father in the side. At the time of the attack I stood unarmed over my wounded father's body and tried with childish strength to fight off his assailant, but, though he escaped with life in him from the place where he was assaulted, he subsequently succumbed to his injuries, and in the following spring he died. This calamity deprived my mother and our family of a worthy and esteemed head of the household, his death being an incident in the horrid internecine strife that eventuated in the tragedies of the civil war. I was then ten years old.

I could ride any horse alive. I had a knack of shooting straight, and I knew something about herding cattle. I thought these qualities might earn me a living. They did.

A firm of overland freighters—Russell, Majors & Waddell—were at Leavenworth. One of them, Mr. Majors, had been a friend of my father. I asked him for a job as "extra" on one of his wagon trains. The pay was $40 a month—a fortune it seemed to me then. The work was the sort usually entrusted to a grown man, and it meant not only perpetual hunting, but a lot of danger as well, for the plains in those days were roving with lawless Indians. This latter thought frightened even my brave mother. However, I was delighted at the idea.

Mr. Majors said he would take me on as extra for one trip. If I did well I could have a regular job. I recalled to me a number of tales of the "train" and was made up of twenty-five loaded wagons, each carrying 7,000 pounds, each drawn by six yoke of oxen and guided by a "trail-bag," a driver with a long whip and a long whip. Then there was a bunch of loose cattle. On this occasion the train was made up of only three wagons, and we were under the lead of beef cattle to Fort Kearney for the use of Colonel Albert Sydney Johnston and his command, who were on their way to Salt Lake City to the Mormons. I was only one of several extras. Though we always set guard no Indians had been seen for miles.

One noon, however, when we stopped for dinner and were loafing about on the grass waiting for the pot to boil we heard a sound which we at first took for a mouse. Some bullets and a dozen or more arrows whistled into camp. Everybody had jumped up at the first shot. But the noise was untroubled now at once, as if they had been tripped up. Then a number of things happened almost too quickly to describe.

Two bands of Indians were galloping toward us. One band stampeded and ran off our cattle, while the other "brushed" us. Our horses were then a warm welcome and sent them back on the run. But the fight was not over. The "harrow" only centered out of range. There they were, waiting for us. They outnumbered us eight or ten to one. We could not hope to stand against such a multitude. We looked for the South Platte river with the savages at our heels and found shelter behind the steep banks. From there we opened fire again and drove the following Redskins once more out of range.

Frank McCarthy, our boss, said our chance was to follow the Platte river to Fort Kearney. We were to shoot at them from the bank, but I was no time for rest or complaining. Just the same, by nightfall my short legs would not keep up with the procession. I dropped back little by little, still plodding on as fast as my aching feet could move. We thought we had given the Indians the slip, but I still lagged my short legs. I was carrying a mule loaded with "Mississippi Jaeger" and carried a long and two buckshot to each charge.

The moon had risen, and I was trying to catch up with the rest. Suddenly, in front of me and at the top of the high bank, I saw against the moon the head and high war bonnet of an Indian chief. He was bent double. The man ahead could not see him, but he had his gun leveled at them. I knew if he fired he would certainly take at that range. Some one of my friends must be killed. I had halted at sight of him, and he didn't see it. I had no time to think of my own safety. I brought up my rifle and took what aim I could in the deceptive moonlight. When my sights were just below the war bonnet's feathers I pulled the trigger. The stillness of the river was split by a roar as the report echoed from bank to bank. Down tumbled the chief over the edge, rolling over and over like a shot rabbit till he landed plump in the water.

A yell from the band he had led, and a score of Indians swarmed up to the bank. But our men drove them back and they gave up the attack as a bad job. At dawn we flumped worn out into Fort Kearney. The soldiers there started on a wild goose chase for the Indians. They were never caught. The slashed, scalped bodies of our dead were found beside the wrecked, looted wagons.

When I was thirteen my mother was building a hotel for the use of passing gold hunters, for this was late in 1850 when the gold fever swept America and all roads led to Pike's peak. Our Salt Creek valley home lay on one of the most traveled routes.

Hotel building and furnishing are not on the free list. So I wanted to help raise money for our Valley Grove House. With an older boy named Dave Phillips I planned a trapping trip. Winter was setting in when we started.

We bought an ox team and wagon to transport the traps, camp outfit and provisions and took a large supply of ammunition, besides extra rifles. Our route was the Republican river. It courses more than 150 miles from Leavenworth, but the country about it was reputed rich in beaver. I acted as scout on the journey, going ahead to pick out trails, locate camping grounds and look out for breakers. The information concerning the beaver proved correct. The game was indeed so plentiful that we concluded to pitch a permanent camp and see the winter out.

We chose a hollow in a side hill and enlarged it to the dimensions of a decent sized room.

We had seen no Indians on our trip out and were not concerned in that quarter, though we were too good plainmen to relax our vigilance. There were other foes, as we discovered the first night in our new quarters.

We were aroused by a commotion in the corral where the oxen were confined, and, hurrying out with our rifles, we found a huge bear intent upon a feast of beef. The oxen were bellowing in terror, one of them dashed wildly across the inclosure and the other so badly hurt that it could not get up.

Phillips, who was in the lead, fired the heels of his rifle, squealing in the little doghouse until there was barely room for them to sit down.

With sinking heart I saw them enter the little doghouse until there was barely room for them to sit down.

With sinking heart I saw them enter the little doghouse until there was barely room for them to sit down.

With sinking heart I saw them enter the little doghouse until there was barely room for them to sit down.

"Tell you what I think I'd better do," said he. "The nearest settlement is some eighty miles away, and I can get there and back in twenty days. Suppose I make the trip, get a team for our wagon and come back for you?"

The idea of being left alone and well nigh helpless struck dismay to my heart, but there was no help for it, and I assented. Dave put his traps into shipshape, piled wood in our dug-out, cooked a quantity of food and put it where I could reach it without rising and fetched several days' supply of water. Mother, ever mindful of my education, had put some school-books in the wagon, and Dave placed these beside the food and water. When Phillips finally set out, driving the surviving ox before him, he left behind a very lonely and homesick boy.

During the first day of my confinement I felt too desolate to eat, much less to read. But as I grew accustomed to solitude I derived real pleasure from the companionship of books. Perhaps in all my life I never extracted so much benefit from study as during those days.

"I did that the room is too small to contain the number who desire to come in, so we must leave it and hold the meeting outside the building."

"I will tell you the truth. You are Irishmen, therefore have men. The floor is giving way, and we must leave this room at once. If there is a pause and a rush to the door we shall all be precipitated into the room below, but if you obey my orders we shall be saved. Let the twelve men nearest the door go quietly out, then the next twelve, and so on till all have gone. I shall be last to leave."

His instructions were obeyed to the letter, and he waited, patient and calm, till all had gone out in safety. Then he walked quietly across the snoring, crackling floor, reaching the door just as the shattered beams gave way. And thus, by the force of his strong will, a terrible accident was averted.

A letter, I in an out of the way region of England put up one night in an amiable old lady's cottage, the village inn being full. Now, the tourist was very deaf, which fact he took pains to impress upon the old lady, together with instructions to wake him at a particular hour in the morning.

While waiting a most deal later than the appointed time he found that the amiable old lady, with commendable regard for propriety, had slipped under the pillow a slip of paper on which was written:

"Sir: It is half past 8"—Harper's Weekly.

Take exercise in the open air daily. Air is essential.

Tight sleeves and tight finger rings are a frequent source of red hands, and the only remedy for this is to remove the irritating cause.

The secret of standing and walking erect consists in keeping the chin away from the breast. This throws the head upward and backward, and the shoulders will naturally settle backward in their true position.

Steeplechases is often caused by the head being exposed to the cold while the rest of the body is warm. In such cases out of ten if the head is covered with a silk handkerchief it will induce the much desired sleep.

The skin taken out of an eggshell is a simple but good remedy for sore eyes. Just put on top of lid and bandage over it, and you will be surprised how soon the swelling will go down and the pain will leave the eye.

Beware Of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous membrane, such articles should never be used except on prescription from a responsible physician, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is taken internally. F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free.

Friendly Advice.

A very matter of fact Scotchwoman called on a neighbor, an elderly woman, who had been illing for some time.

And how do you find yourself today, Janet?" was the greeting.

"Ah, Martha, I'm very bad. This cold damp weather 'll be the end of me. I'll be a dead woman before very long."

Had Poor Sight.

New Boy (rather inquisitive)—What did the other lad leave for, sir? Master—For having defective eye sight at times, my boy.

New Boy—Why, sir, I have been blind since. Apparently, then, his eyesight was all right. It seems rather curious now, doesn't it?

Master—Well, my boy, at various times when taking money from customers he could not see the till.—Lion Don Answers.

AVERTED A TRAGEDY.

Nerve Displayed by Daniel O'Connell at a Critical Moment.

Daniel O'Connell, the famous Irish agitator, had a contempt for physical danger. On a certain occasion a meeting had been convened, and a large crowd assembled in a room on the first floor of a building in a small city in Ireland.

O'Connell was about to address the people when a gentleman, pale with fear, made his way to the platform and hastily whispered into the ear of the speaker:

"Liberator, the floor is giving way! The beams that shore it up are cracking, and we shall fall through in a few minutes!"

"Keep silent," said O'Connell. Then, raising his voice, he addressed the assembly:

"I find that the room is too small to contain the number who desire to come in, so we must leave it and hold the meeting outside the building."

"I will tell you the truth. You are Irishmen, therefore have men. The floor is giving way, and we must leave this room at once. If there is a pause and a rush to the door we shall all be precipitated into the room below, but if you obey my orders we shall be saved. Let the twelve men nearest the door go quietly out, then the next twelve, and so on till all have gone. I shall be last to leave."

His instructions were obeyed to the letter, and he waited, patient and calm, till all had gone out in safety. Then he walked quietly across the snoring, crackling floor, reaching the door just as the shattered beams gave way. And thus, by the force of his strong will, a terrible accident was averted.

A letter, I in an out of the way region of England put up one night in an amiable old lady's cottage, the village inn being full. Now, the tourist was very deaf, which fact he took pains to impress upon the old lady, together with instructions to wake him at a particular hour in the morning.

While waiting a most deal later than the appointed time he found that the amiable old lady, with commendable regard for propriety, had slipped under the pillow a slip of paper on which was written:

"Sir: It is half past 8"—Harper's Weekly.

THE NEW NECKWEAR.

Collars and Stocks That Clever Women May Make.

The new neck rashes give a somewhat choked appearance, but they are meeting with popular approval nevertheless. It cannot be denied that of the two the high, choking affairs give much more style than the low, round ones which were formerly worn. The new separate stocks are made with wide ruffles at the top. Some smart models of this kind are shown here. The ruff with how and long streamers is made of satin in any desired shade. The folds of satin for the stock are mounted on a shaped ermine band, which is a little at this a few rows and went out, but the majority retained their seats. Then O'Connell said:

Beware Of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous membrane, such articles should never be used except on prescription from a responsible physician, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is taken internally. F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free.

Woman's World

MRS. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Charming Personality of the Wife of the President Elected.

What manner of woman is Mrs. Taft, whose name is so soon to be added to those of the women whose influence has made the social form of past administrations? More pertinent still, how will it measure with the record of the Roosevelt regime? The first question is easy to answer, for few women have gone into the White House so well equipped to meet the exacting of the position of "first lady" of the land.

Mrs. Taft has brains and uses them without being in any sense aggressive or pedantic. She talks well and looks well when she is talking. Her smile has the charm of intelligence, that quick flash of recognition distinct from the frozen, automatic smile peculiar to many women in official life, on whom social duties make many demands, even to that of continuously "looking pleasant." She has a generous mouth and handsome teeth, a straight nose, well proportioned to her other features, and a broad forehead, above which her brown hair is arranged in a soft pompadour.

In her knowledge of languages Mrs. Taft will have the advantage over many of her predecessors. The future mistress of the White House is a good disposition. "That traditional bogey of the fortune teller, 'the dark man,' is not such a mistaken type, after all. When, in addition, he is of spare build every girl who wants a happy home ought to have a special mission all ready to hand to him. Many years of observation have taught me it is impossible for a dark, slender man to make any woman happy. It isn't in him to be happy himself. He invariably is suspicious, narrow minded and pessimistic. He is a chronic fault-finder and a great deal of his life is spent in great being unscrupulous as well. It is out of the question to please him in any way. He thinks everybody is trying to get the better of him, whereas the truth is he passes his days trying to get the better of everybody else. Moreover, he is envious of the smallest property that comes to another and jealous of the slightest interest, however impersonal, his wife betrays to another man. A law should be passed compelling every dark, spare, suspicious, narrow minded, and pessimistic man to put on or blench his complexion before taking a wife. Women may get along with blond, slender men or with dark, stout ones, but with those who are dark and slender, never."

A Woman of Fact.

A woman of fact is the one who feels that the story told to hurt your feelings is essentially had form, and inconsistent of the feelings of others.

A woman of fact is the woman who is courteous to old people, who laughs with the young and who makes her agreement to all women in all conditions of life.

A woman of fact is the one who makes her "good morning" a pleasant greeting, her visit a bright spot in the day and her "goodbye" a hope that she may come again.

A woman of fact is one who does not judge people by the clothes they wear, but by the conduct and bad manners.

A woman of fact is one who is courteous under all circumstances and in every condition in which she may be placed.

A woman of fact is one whose love for humanity is second only to her love for her own children and her own life. She is devoted to the cause of the underprivileged, and she is unselfish in thought and action with regard to others.

Dioxigen For the Mouth.

The merits of dioxigen as a mouth wash are not so well realized as they should be. It is easy to get and not expensive. A stoppered glass bottle of it should be on every woman's dressing table.

After eating, if one hasn't time to brush the teeth, the mouth should be rinsed out with diluted dioxigen. It is a strong antiseptic and kills the food from decaying and protects the top of the mouth and gums from soreness or from creating and emanating a disagreeable odor.

The toothbrush should always be dipped in a little of it and brushed over the teeth and gums at morning and night, even after tooth paste is used.

The latter merely cleans the teeth. It does not disinfect the mouth. People do not pay enough attention to the health of their mouths. The person who may be scrupulous about their teeth should be scrupulous about their mouth.

A Remedy For Choking.

Few people know that a very simple and effective remedy for choking is to raise the left arm as high as possible, which relieves the person much more rapidly than the usual method of thrusting him on the back, says a physician. Very frequently at meals and at play children get choked, and the customary manner of relieving them is to slap them sharply on the back. The effect of this is to set the child's head back. The person who is brought about by raising the left hand of the child as high as possible, and the relief comes much more quickly. In no instances of this kind there should be no attempt for if the child sees that other persons or parents get excited the effect is bad. The best thing is to tell the child to raise his left arm, and immediately the difficulty passes away.

Don't Snub Children.

A children love to be treated with courtesy and respect. They resent having their opinions and sentiments snubbed, and parents must learn a good deal from them and about them if they would encourage them to think more freely of all they think and feel. We are hardened by the gathering years, and we have lost our keenest sense of what a child really thinks and the very best. The contact of a child's mind with its pure vision is like a message straight from God.

TRUST CONTROL PLAN

Secretary Straus Urges Federal Publicity and More Supervision.

ADVOCATES NEW LABOR LAWS

Employers Should Bear Burden of Workers' Injuries, Commerce Department's Head Declares—Recommends a More Scientific Distribution of Work.

Secretary Straus, in the sixth annual report of the department of commerce and labor, made public the other day, pays particular attention to the problem of the unemployed, government supervision of corporations and the relations between capital and labor.

"The five year" experience of the bureau since its creation in dealing with corporate affairs," says the report, "has made it clear that the great advance toward corporate reform must come through some general system of publicity. The logical conclusion from the work of the bureau thus far points to the imperative need of a federal constructive system for the positive supervision of interstate corporations, to the primary end of securing efficient publicity in corporate affairs. Such publicity must be of the sort that is adapted to the practical requirements of American public opinion. It cannot consist of mere publication of masses of facts and figures. The government must summarize and digest them and present them to the public in the shape of brief, reliable, clear conclusions showing important corporate facts."

"It is becoming more and more obvious that the work of the government in regulating corporations should be directed at the mere existence of combination itself, but should deal with the way in which the combination powers are used, so as to prevent the abuse of the powers of these great industrial forces. Only such combinations as are formed for wrongful purposes or such combinations as use their powers for evil should be kept under the condemnation of the law."

In suggesting a definite plan for a system of government control over corporations Secretary Straus says: "Such a system should have the following basic features:

"It should be carried on by the federal government as the only jurisdiction competent to handle a subject matter so entirely national in its scope and nature."

"It should require a system of regular reports from all large interstate corporations, to be made to an administrative office, and should provide that that office shall have access to the records of those corporations."

"It should further provide that that office shall publish the important facts as to corporate operations, so far as they are of public interest, and that at the same time from unnecessary publication all proper business secrets."

"So far as possible, the system should be made voluntary rather than compulsory."

"In exchange for giving this publicity corporations should be allowed to receive under a law so certain a federal standing and the public benefit of their position as concerns not afraid of scrutiny."

"Finally, such a system should recognize the fact that there cannot be both prohibition and regulation of combination at the same time and that if the public interest elects to regulate combination it must at least permit a certain reasonable degree of freedom and of recognition in law what has already become an economic fact."

"The reform of the liability and industrial insurance Secretary Straus says:

"One of the great needs in industrial relations in the United States is a radical change in the law respecting employers' liability. Under our present no compensation can be collected for injury or death unless such injury or death is directly to some negligence on the part of the employer or of his representatives or employees. In probability the majority of our cases are properly to be blamed for an industrial accident. Modern industry is becoming increasingly more dangerous, and a certain amount of death and injury inevitably results from many of its processes."

"We should recognize that these accidents are and to a certain extent must always be a part of the regular cost of carrying on certain trades; that they are as much a part of the business economies as the breakage and wear and tear of machinery; that the expense of them should be borne by that business and distributed upon the public and consumers like any other manufacturing cost."

"Justice demands that this burden of industry should not be thrown upon those members of society least able to bear it—the victims themselves and their families—as is now the case."

"The best practice in other countries gives a definite compensation for death or injury, based usually upon the earning capacity of the person injured or killed. This enables the employer to calculate with some degree of certainty the cost of his liability."

"Through an insurance system this item of compensation for injury becomes for the individual employer as deductible as readily calculable as fire insurance—an item which is everywhere recognized as a legitimate element in the cost of production."

"The legislation here suggested not only should compensation be fixed and definite, but the method of securing such compensation should be far simpler than our present methods. In order to establish a claim for liability under the existing statutes the practice is cumbersome and expensive. Long drawn out contests crowd the dockets of the courts, entail large expense on the employer and finally yield only a small return to the injured employee or his dependents when damages are actually awarded."

"The law granting compensation to government employees, passed at the first session of the present congress, should be extended in scope so as to embrace classes of employees not now included and should be made more liberal in its terms. The compensation at present paid—one year's earnings—is pitifully inadequate where total disability results from an injury or where death leaves a dependent family."

A government investigation of sanitary problems is advocated by Mr. Straus.

"The national government should be an anxious and alert to protect the wages earned against the ravages of disease resulting from their work," he says, "as it is to protect agricultural products against pests and farm stock against disease."

Discussing the problem of the unemployed, Secretary Straus recommends a more scientific distribution of labor. This can be accomplished by the government, he says, in supplying "information to all of our workers, whether native, foreign born or alien, so that they may be constantly advised in respect to every part of the country as to the demand for their services, the rate of wages and the cost of living in the respective localities."

This would greatly aid in keeping large numbers of undesirable foreigners at home, says Secretary Straus, as many aliens now come to America with little money and many qualifications to do the work they expect to do.

WOMEN'S PIE EATING CONTEST

Required by Rules Not to Use Knife or Fork or Hands.

The latest fad among the women of Red Bank, N. J., is pie biting. It was started at the banquet of the Liberty of the Highlands and is spreading rapidly to other women's clubs and organizations in Red Bank. Several prizes already offered and won by quick pie eaters are handsome and their possessors are exceedingly proud of them. The food tasters to put bridge what the second place.

It is not an easy task which is set for the contestants. The plan is to get a big, juicy pie, preferably one filled with blackberries or blueberries. The pie is quartered, and the pieces are placed on separate plates. At a prearranged signal four women begin a race to see which can eat her piece first. What makes it particularly exciting is the fact that no contestant is permitted to touch the pie with her hand or with knife or fork. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1908.

This is fine weather for plowing and the farmers are taking advantage of it. Despite the long drought during the fall months the crops which were sown in the fall are growing rapidly and if favorable weather prevails during the spring months there will be a bumper crop of wheat. From all accounts and the preparations being made there will be a record-breaking acreage of tobacco this year. Plant beds are being prepared and buried for early sowing of seed which means early plants and lots of them.

Farmers are in fine spirits and working with a vim not seen in many years.

An ounce of tobacco seed contains from 300,000 to 400,000 seeds. It is said that not more than 35,000 good plants are available from an ounce with the best preparation of the beds and sowing. Experienced planters usually sow three times the amount of seed that they expect to need.

In selecting a site for a seed bed location, exposure, protection from frosts, insects and parasitic diseases are to be considered. A southern exposure is always best, a southeastern exposure next, then a western and lastly a northern or northeastern.

Where possible it is advisable to locate the seed bed near a pond, a lake, running brook or river, because of the moisture and greater uniformity of temperature in such a location. It is best where possible to do so, to make the bed upon new land. There is less danger from larvae, insects and weed and grass seed.

As damp locations are more subject to parasitic and fungus diseases, many growers prefer to make their beds, for this reason, on high, dry warm soil near the house and keep it damp by frequent sprinkling. An open space in the woods where the midday sun shines has always been a favorite location for a seed bed, because of the protection the grass affords from the cold winds and the excessive drying out of the plants and soil.

Growers usually make it a rule to plant beds a week or ten days apart, as a protection against unexpected cold and other causes of loss. When a bed is killed out with the cold it is immediately resown. When the plants come up too thick in a bed they should be immediately thinned to allow space for a good root development. Each plant should be allowed at least a square inch of space for the roots to develop.

The best size for a plant bed is 50 feet long and not over three feet wide in order that all parts of it may be reached from either side. The bed should be enclosed with a frame and covered with muslin. In from six weeks to two months after the seed is sown the plants are ready to be transplanted to the field.

The thing for every farmer to do is to work for quality instead of quantity. A small acreage and good quality is much better than a large acreage and poor quality. Make the quality and there will be no trouble about making the price.

Good methods, skill and experience in cultivation, careful working and care in the barn and after curing is what makes your tobacco desirable. The trust buyer, the independent buyer and the small dealer all want good tobacco and will pay the price.

BLOWING IN THE YULE.

Quaint Christmas Custom of an Old Town in Denmark.
Blowing in the Yule from the gruff old tower that had stood 800 years against the blasts of the North sea was one of the customs of the old town that abide, however it fares with the Norse; that I know, says Jacob A. Rilla in his article entitled "Yuletide in the Old Town" in the Christmas Century. At sunrise, while yet the people were at breakfast, the town band climbed the many steep ladders to the top of the tower, and up there in fair weather or foul—and sometimes it blew great gusts from the wintry sea—they played four old hymns, one to each corner of the compass, so that no one was forgotten. They always began with Luther's staid old hymn, "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," while down below we listened devoutly. There was something both weird and beautiful about those old bells ringing in the early morning light of the northern winter, something that was not of earth and that suggested to my child's imagination the angels' songs on far Judaea hills. Even now, after all these years, the memory of it does that. It could not have been because the music was so rare, for the band was made up of small storekeepers and artisans who thus turned an honest penny on festive occasions. Incongruously enough, I think the official town mourner, who bade people to funerals, was one of them. It was like the burghers' guard, the solemn of which—we thought him at least a general because of the huge brass sword he trailed when he marched at the head of his men—was the town color, a very small but very martial man. But, whether or no, it was beautiful. I have never heard music since that so moved me. When the last strain died away came the big bells with their deep voices that sang far out over field and beach, and our Yule was fairly under way.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil is the means of life and enjoyment of life to thousands: men, women and children.
When appetite fails, it restores it. When food is a burden, it lifts the burden.
When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health.
When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life bright.
It is the thin edge of the wedge; the thick end is food. But what is the use of food when you take it and can't digest it?
Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach.

PRESIDENT'S HUNTING BOOTS
Footgear For African Trip to Be Made Over Casts of His Feet.
President Roosevelt has ordered his hunting boots. They really are boots, reaching almost to the knee, and the measurements by which they are to be made are the most complete ever received by a Brockton (Mass.) factory.
Orders were given for four pairs of boots, all to be duplicated. Each of the president's feet was carefully measured. In all nearly fifty measurements were taken. By them plastic casts will be made of the president's feet and legs, and the shoes hereafter will be built on these. The shoes which must be absolutely waterproof are to have an extra double sole, into which the uppers are to be sewed with waterproof stitches.

MIX THIS.

Prepare at Home by Shaking Ingredients Well in a Bottle.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic affections with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

MR. HILLS HURT.

Mr. Harry Hills of Richmond, who came here last week to spend Christmas with his family at the home of Mrs. Mary Oetse, suffered a dreadful accident Christmas. A window fell on his hands and hurt them so bad they had to be bandaged. While shooting some fireworks the next night, the cloths of his fingers became ignited and burned both hands severely.

Card of Thanks.

We wish hereby to publicly express our gratitude to the numerous friends, who so kindly remembered the occupants of the parsonage with so many useful things for Christmas.

Truly,
Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Currie.

Her Heart Was Broken
because her complexion was bad and she could find nothing to clear it up. Ladies: a bad complexion is caused by an inactive liver. An inactive liver will be put in perfect condition by taking Ballard's Herbine. The unequalled liver regulator. Sold by A. R. Fisher.

AT THE CHURCHES.

The Methodist choir rendered a program at the church hour Sunday night. Mr. A. H. Murray was the director and Miss Eva Lee May was the leader.

The Baptist Sunday School enjoyed a Christmas treat Sunday morning.

The entertainment given for the members of the Methodist Church and Sunday School Wednesday evening was delightful.

A series of services have just closed at Hardin's School House. There were nine conversions and four joiners to the church. Rev. and Mrs. Etherton of Ohio county had charge of the meeting.

The revival at Pisgah closed Christmas eve. Much interest was manifested in the meetings which were conducted by Rev. C. Conley and Rev. C. L. Goff.

The Presbyterian Sunday School will give a treat to the scholars next Sunday.

Every case of backache, weak back, bladder inflammation and rheumatic pains is dangerous if neglected, for such troubles are nearly always due to weak kidneys. Take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are antiseptic and soothe pain quickly. Insist upon DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. For weak kidneys and inflammation of the bladder they are unequalled. Regular size 50c. Sold here by all druggists.

A Dangerous Operation
is the removal of the appendix by a surgeon. No one who takes Dr. King's New Life Pills is ever subjected to this frightful ordeal. They work so quietly you don't feel them. They cure constipation, headache, biliousness and malaria. 25c. at Severs drug store.

Time to Stop.
Mrs. Benham—Henry, I am more than glad that you don't drink now but how did you come to leave off?
Benham—You remember the last time your mother was here? Mrs. Benham—Yes, Benham—Well, one night while she was here I came home in pretty bad shape and saw three of her. That settled it.

His Fears Realized.
"My heart is in my mouth. I am afraid to hear you answer."
"You may well be, Mr. Dollboy," retorted Ethel. "I never could marry a man whose heart was not in the right place!"
If a man is worth knowing at all he is worth knowing well.—Alexander Smith.
